

Comics Rule!

As part of the summer school ( National Literacy Trust) offer to support their transition from primary to secondary school, Year 6 were fortunate enough to have a master class from comic book artist, Neil Cameron.

Neil Cameron guided the children through his process of creating a comic and challenged them to design their own magnificent pieces. The children used the summer writing challenge: Comics Rule! provided by REY paper. The packs included colouring pencils, stickers and a Beano comic and everything a budding comic artist needs!

The children were fully engaged and the session not only boosted their literacy skills, it made a huge impact on their attitudes to learning and wellbeing.

A huge thank you to Francesca Bonafede from the National Literacy Trust for making it happen!
